	of protecting critical business data, from simple file data to complex databases. System failures, malicious viruses, natural disasters, human error, and even theft can threaten vital corporate information. Many companies are experiencing increasingly strict corporate governance rules for data security; however the growth in data volume has become so extreme that common practices such as overnight backups are no longer sufficient. • With Dimension Data's Hosted Backup and Recovery, businesses can easily protect and secure data on PCs, laptops, and servers. By using a simple online interface, administrators can define which data they want to back up and when the backup is to occur. Data is encrypted, compressed, and securely sent to Dimension Data's data centre, providing an inexpensive and hassle-free alternative to conventional backup systems.				HostedBackupandRecovery
